. . . and humanity is living in a temporary shelter. . . . One day, Rei Ayanami, a teenage girl who is the only occupant of a mobile suit piloted by . . . Asuka Langley Soryu, one of the last remaining humans, is contacted by a being called Lilith who offers her a choice between destruction and . . . new life. Set in the year 2000, the series begins when a college student named Haruhiko Kawaguchi uses his new power to catch two mysterious girls trying to commit suicide. Shortly thereafter, he discovers that he can control objects around him with his mind and that he is endowed with both the appearance and powers of an Evangelion Unit-03 Evangelion, Asuka Langley Soryu (Unit-02) of the Evangelion series. As he is finding his way, he encounters various people, including a strange girl named Yui, and after they meet, his life changes into a different future. A number of pieces of information are made available in the time between the beginning of Evangelion and Kawaguchi's new identity. This essay investigates how Evangelion: 3.0 You Can (Not) Redo (Dub) depicts Kawaguchi's development and his relation to the people and the world in which he lives. It has four sections: 1) Kawaguchi is a self-conscious individual and his narrative function is delineated. 2) Kawaguchi is presented as an objectified instrument of the narrative. 3) Kawaguchi functions as an all-purpose character in Evangelion: 3.0 You Can (Not) Redo (Dub) and this is an essential part of his identity. 4) Kawaguchi is no longer the same character that he was when he began Evangelion: 3.0 You Can (Not) Redo (Dub). Kawaguchi is self-conscious as early as the first Evangelion: 3.0 You Can (Not) Redo (Dub) episode, when he reveals to Shinji and Rei that he is a “super normal”, that is, a normal human being in a world that is in some ways abnormal. Kawaguchi refers to himself in the first person to describe his goal to save the world. He is very self-conscious, even though he is always smiling in the face of others. He is aware of his existence and capable of self 82157476af
